Summary

<https://bananabobby.github.io>

First and foremost, I pay attention to the quality of products I develop and push myself to reach out the best possible results. However never underestimate the value of business goals and project deadlines.

Second of all, I am fully a team player and believe in trustworthy team mindset that eventually leads to healthier decisions. Still am experienced self-maintained front-end developer.

In addition absolutely appreciate qualitative and clean design and believe it's not about following trends rather understanding issues your service should solve to make the metrics increase.
